

Attorneys provide a better quality parenting plan that is more able to meet a client's long term interests.

Self-satisfaction is increased and personal stress is decreased with providing a tried and true solution for the children involved.

Attorneys are not alone with respect to counselling clients respecting the Fair Parenting Plan. There is a growing body of research and academic opinion to rely upon.

Parent's future scheduling disputes are resolved quickly and cost effectively. Family law participants will be more willing to seek assistance with scheduling disputes because costs are controlled and timelines are predictable.

Expensive public resources are not wasted dealing with problems that require community solutions.

Children are not placed in the middle of protracted Court disputes respecting scheduling issues.

Police interventions are more effective because the common schedule is known.

There is improved access to justice because the Fair Parenting Plan makes scheduling issues much easier to determine and understand for family law participants.

The Court system's resources can focus on child protection and legal disputes which the system is better suited to deal with.

Family law clients are happier from receiving tangible and rational value for their legal fees; less complaints.

